03 Legislative & Regulatory Tracker — Who Wins, Who Loses (desk view)

Jurisdiction	Legislation / Policy Change	Affected Sector(s)	Net Impact & Strategic Outlook
Local — Pakistan	The PM approved the final draft (7 Nov) of the Auto Policy 2026–31 (localisation, EVs, consumer protection); press reports say the IMF raised no objection and tax measures may come via a mini-budget. Cabinet approval and notification pending.	Auto assemblers, parts makers, auto finance, EV entrants	Wins: small-car buyers, EV/PHEV entrants and export-oriented parts makers if the reported incentives survive [EST.]. Loses: buyers of larger cars and legacy assemblers facing levies and tariff cuts [EST.]. Net: direction clearer; the money bill decides who pays [EST.].
GCC — Saudi Arabia	Cabinet approves a State Revenues Law (see Gulf Business); detailed provisions not yet published (carried).	Government-linked entities, contractors, fee-paying businesses, sovereign debt	Wins: Ministry of Finance and bondholders through tighter revenue collection [EST.]. Loses: entities that rely on ad-hoc fees or retained revenues [EST.]. Net: a fiscal-discipline signal as attacks on energy sites add to security costs [EST.].
Global — US	Fed policy: markets now price a 25bp December hike at ~88–91% and a 50bp move at 14.5%, up from zero a week ago (Reuters/CME, USAGOLD); the 10Y is above 5.1%.	Banks, long-duration tech, gold, EM FX and debt	Wins: the US dollar, cash and bank margins [EST.]. Loses: gold, long-duration growth stocks and frontier borrowers [EST.]. Net: tighter global conditions; for Pakistan, oil near $96 matters more near term [EST.].

04 The Day Ahead — KSE-100 Levels & Desk Stance (Friday 13 November)

SUPPORT EST.
176,327
S1; then 175,280 (S2)

PIVOT EST.
178,319
classic pivot off Thursday's high 180,310, low 177,272 and close 177,374

RESISTANCE EST.
179,366
R1; then 181,357 (R2)

Desk stance — Cautious; the index closed just above Wednesday's S2 and below the new pivot, so 176,327 is the first test. A second failure near 180,300 and 316 decliners against 155 advancers show supply above 180,000. Asia opens firmer (Kospi +2.35%, Nikkei +1.4%, US futures +0.2%), which may cushion the open, but Brent near $96 and a US 10-year above 5.1% weigh on an oil-importing market. A close above 178,319 reopens 179,366; a close under 176,327 points to 175,280. Drivers. (1) Whether attack claims on Saudi oil sites and Hormuz tankers are confirmed. (2) US PPI today (18:30 PKT) and December Fed-hike pricing. (3) Nvidia's leadership transition ahead of 17 Nov results. (4) Auto Policy tax measures and the IMF Board date. Mood: Cautious — a second failure near 180,300 and a 0.95% drop leave 176,327 in play; Asia's chip rebound helps the open, but Brent near $96 and a 5.1% US 10-year cap risk appetite.

Run note: compiled ~07:30 PKT Friday. PSX figures are Thursday 12 Nov closes (ARY, The Nation, Business Recorder, TechJuice); USD/PKR 276.61 is the Thursday interbank close (Business Recorder, APP). US closes via Eurasia Business News, cross-checked with Motley Fool and StockTitan. Oil settlements via Reuters (Nation Thailand) and Eurasia; gold/silver spot = Kitco late quote (via Eurasia), cross-checked with USAGOLD mid-session. Nvidia leadership facts are from the company's SEC-filed release; reasons are press reports, not company statements. Thursday Treasury yield closes are from a single newsletter source (EST.); Asia yield highs are Reuters. Attack claims on Saudi sites and Hormuz tankers are claims by the Houthis and Iran, not confirmed by Saudi Arabia. Not verified: KSE-100 index contributors, scrip levels, TASI/DFM/ADX, KIBOR, IMF Board date, Auto Policy cabinet approval. CPI, PIF, PMI and State Revenues Law items are carried.
